POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The first bugle call has sounded for California's 1944 presidential primary — and the Willkie Volunteers are on the march again!

From Sacramento, Senator Jerry Seawell, president pro tem of the State Senate, wired Wendell Willkie at New York a few days ago as follows:

"Not party loyalty but national interest on the broadest scale demand an intelligent, progressive Republican as our party's presidential candidate next year. Your foreign policy, plus your domestic sanity, make it self-evident that you must be the Republican candidate."

"It is probably too early for you to have decided to permit your name to be entered in the California primary election, with delegates pledged unequivocally to you. I want you to know, however, that I have the utmost confidence that if you should decide to announce, the rank and file of California Republican voters will receive your announcement with the greatest enthusiasm."

Back from Willkie, very promptly, came this significant reply — which seasoned political observers consider virtually tantamount to an announcement that he will seek to capture California's delegation to next year's Republican Convention:

"Thank you very much, indeed, for your wire. Naturally I have not finally decided what I will do with reference to seeking the nomination of the Republican Party in 1944. I am, however, greatly pleased that your expert judgment leads you to believe that the Republicans of California find themselves in accord with the principles, both foreign and domestic, for which I am fighting and shall continue to fight."

"When I have decided on my course of action, I shall certainly be in touch with you and it will be a help in making my decision to know that I can count on you."

Lending added significance to the exchange of wires is the fact that Senator Seawell, in 1940, headed up Willkie's campaign committee in Northern California. And doubly significant is the fact that astute Bartley C. Crum of San Francisco, close personal and political friend of Willkie, who toured the country with him four years ago, is now in New York, conferring with Willkie on the 1944 outlook.

Whether you like Willkie, or despise him (there are few who have half-hearted feelings about him) you can safely write it down now: Willkie's hat is in the ring. And in California, that will mean much tooting of horns as rival leaders seek to rally their stalwarts for the big battle of ballots scheduled for 1944.

Choir to Present 'Seven Last Words' On Good Friday

A choir of thirty voices and many well-known soloists will present "Seven Last Words" at the Methodist church on Good Friday, April 23 at 8 p. m. This is the first time this imposing Dubois' work has been given in Campbell and may well prove to be the best Lenten music presented in the vicinity this year.

The choir, under the direction of Richard O. Gordon, has been rehearsing for several months with Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Keeney of Palo Alto, tenor and soprano, both former members of the San Francisco Opera company, who will sing the leading parts.

Other soloists are Mrs. Eulah Blaine, soprano, Dave Farley, tenor, Dr. Hugh Cramer and Rev. Donald Baldwin, baritone.

The public is cordially invited. A free will offering will be received.

Howard Coupland Is at Farragut for Naval Training

Howard Richard Coupland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coupland of Rincon avenue, is a new recruit to begin training in one of the camps at U. S. Naval Training Station, Farragut, Idaho, recently.

His training period will consist of a thorough schooling in the Navy methods of seamanship, discipline, physical fitness and other factors that go into the making of a good Navy man.

He will be given a test at the conclusion of this training course and may qualify for further specialized training or be transferred to other shore stations or to a unit of the fleet at sea.

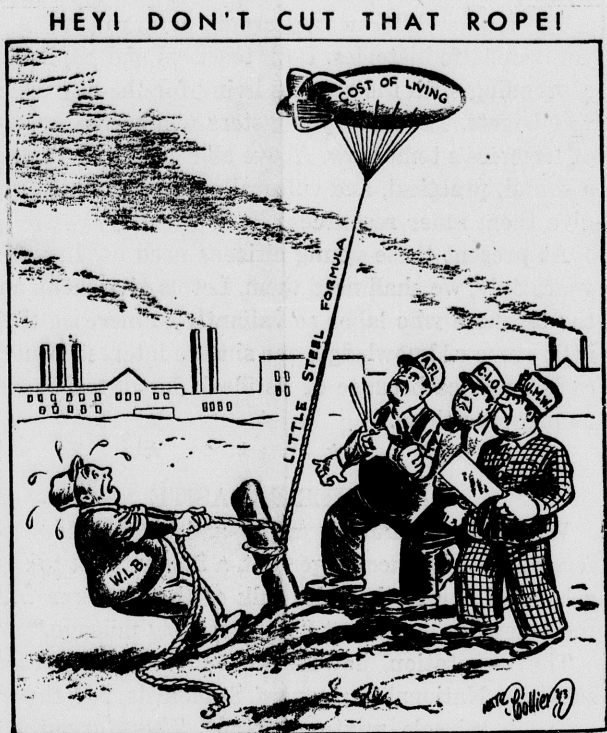

Horace Lee Home Is Quarantined

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Lee, owners of the boarding house in San Jose where Marston Racoosin, San Jose State college student lived and fifteen college men, have been quarantined for a two week period.

An autopsy performed after the sudden death of young Racoosin showed death due to encephalitis or brain fever.

The exact type of the disease could not be determined at once, but as most forms are contagious, the quarantine was necessary for safety, both of those who had been in prolonged contact with the deceased, and for the public.

As for this writer's opinion, we still feel that the candidate who will have the best chance of toppling Mr. Roosevelt is the man who will take his stand, unequivocally, on the side of free enterprise, as against state socialism, and who will make his fight on that issue. The people are getting very tired of being pushed around!

Slipper Infestation of Stored Meat
The best method for keeping skippers out of meat is to keep flies from coming in contact with the meat while the meat is being handled. A dark, cool, well-ventilated fly-proof smoke house is a great help in this respect. Occasional smoking of the meat during summer storage will also be helpful. Another method is to wrap the meat in paper and muslin and hang in the smoke house.

SECOND WAR LOAN DRIVE

Uncle Sam's Second War Loan Drive is on!
Have you bought your EXTRA bond?

The campaign to raise 13 billion dollars to meet the remaining financial needs of the 1943 war program opened April 12. It continues through the month. Every dollar of that amount must be invested in war securities.

"They give their lives—you lend your money" is the slogan of the drive. It should bring immediate response from every man, woman and child in the nation. Our boys on far-flung battlefronts—on land, on sea and in the air—are giving their lives to preserve the freedoms we all enjoy. All we on the home front are asked to do is lend our money—at interest.

Lending our money gives us a nest egg for the years ahead. Besides that, it puts "loose" dollars to work and prevents inflation—the rising of prices for the commodities we use in our daily lives.

The bonds we are buying on a payroll savings plan are not enough to meet Uncle Sam's needs. We must buy extra bonds and keep buying them. Otherwise our fighting men will not have the tanks and planes, the guns and ammunitions that they need.

They are giving their lives—willingly and eagerly. Let's back them up by lending our money. Buy your EXTRA War Bond NOW!

THE WISDOM OF CHILDREN

This Second World War is giving millions of Americans a new slant on facts of life on which 99 per cent of the people are ignorant. Most of us eat by instinct with no knowledge of food values. Our natural appetites and the variety of foods we have had, give us a balanced diet in the majority of cases, without thought on our part.

But with food shortages, rationing and less food in prospect, what we eat becomes a scientific issue and governmental and private agencies are making available facts about food. Candy, which most persons considered a luxury for children and young ladies, has been found to be an indispensable part of the rations of our armed forces. It is included in the field ration, jungle ration, mountain ration, bail-out ration and numerous other rations for soldiers and sailors operating under exhausting conditions.

This form of food contains a vast array of nutrients which contribute to an adequate diet, such as milk, citrus fruits, other fruits, cereals, nuts, eggs, butter and minerals.

HUSH PLANS?

Seven more of the United Nations have accepted the invitation of the United States to attend the international food conference probably to be held on April 27. Ten nations already had accepted.

The Washington Post took up cudgels for the Press following a jocular remark of President Roosevelt that he "hoped no newspaper men would have access to the delegates." Said the Post, "The remark made the newspaper corps sit up and take notice. They know the President well enough to take him most seriously when he smiles most broadly." Late reports from the OWI, however, state flatly that "present incomplete plans for the conference contemplate no barring of reporters from covering the meeting." "Hush" plans never will be popular in America!

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

This week, April 12—18, the public schools of California, and the nation, have flung open their doors to the "public" whom they serve. Our schools have come "up the years" a long way since the first occasion, 23 years ago, when they made a bid for public support and interest by instituting "Public Schools Week."

This year, the interest of parents—and we hope of the public generally—will be more than ever concerned with what goes on behind the school.

The school children face crucial hours in the yet, brief life histories. Both teachers and pupils are contending with the restless living-for-the-day which war begets. Yet these youngsters will be the makers of America's tomorrow. Above all else, they will need a sound, practical, and cultural education which will give them inner resources.

At present these young citizens need us. In a few years only, we shall need them. Let us give them, and the teachers who labor so valiantly to increase their little store of knowledge, our sincere interest. America is America because of its ideals in education. Let us preserve them.

ANOTHER PARASITE

When his gas tank is empty and his "A" car offers only slight encouragement, a fellow is apt to lend a hopeful ear to the sales talk of the stranger peddling the magic formula that "increases gas mileage."

The temptation, however, should be disregarded, says the National Bureau of Standards, for there's no such miracle mixture extant. The Bureau has tested some 150 such "dopes" and here is its report:

"Gasoline dopes which are sold for addition to gasoline in small quantities (one ounce per gallon or less) can be accepted as of value only on conclusive evidence that they are effective. Exclusive of the well-known 'knock suppressors', not a single instance of any important improvement has been observed in any feature of engine performance."

That should be sufficient authority to refute the overly ambitious claims of the trickster who preys these days on motorists who desire to extend their gasoline. He is just another of the war time parasites to be avoided by reasonable people. As one local checking agency points out—if such a "dope" existed the government, to be sure, would be using it in its jeeps and bombers.

YANKS OVER PARIS

The Yanks saw Paris in Spring again, but they weren't standing in the Eiffel Tower, they were circling it in bombers! In one of the most daring American raids on the enemy, 133 U. S. Flying Fortresses smashed at the big Renault armament works near Paris. With deadly accuracy, our bombers dropped hundreds of tons of explosives on these factories, which are located only four miles from the Eiffel Tower, and left their target on fire. Winging their way to the Paris area for the first time in the war, our Flying Fortresses bombed their target and shot down 25 enemy fighters on their return trip. Paris wasn't taking the boys for a joy ride this time!

will either be turned back to the owners or sublet.

Since the government obtained the land with taxpayers money, by outbidding farmers who wanted the land for growing other produce, this seems like a step in the right direction. California farmers can do a better job of cultivating their own lands, and the state is best able to apportion its own produce growing during the food crisis.

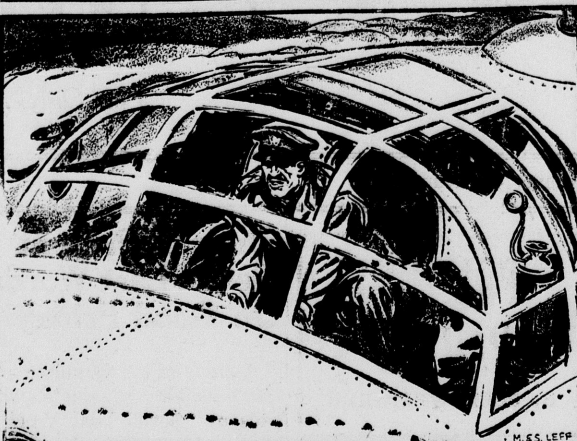

And Time-and-a-Half for Overtime?
In the 60th Bn., Camp Berkeley, Texas, they're talking about the brilliant idea of one of the trainees. This particular recruit approached his commanding officer with the suggestion that he be permitted to serve "twice the duration plus six months" so that he could have every other week off.

Mom

"Sausages for breakfast! Sausages for breakfast! I can smell 'em!" Small Joe came tumbling downstairs fastening the belt of his shorts as he came. He made a bee-line for the kitchen. Pop was already sitting at the table, reading the paper, while Mom held the handle of the frying-pan over the stove. Small Joe came close and sniffed the delicious smoke, wriggling all over with early-morning joy.

"Better be thankful for them while you can still get them." One glance at Mom's face told small Joe this was one of her tight-lipped days. "Not a drop of coffee in the house, and no sugar left to put in it if there was. Some war!" Small Joe kept still.

"Letter for you, son," Pop said in his quiet voice. Small Joe made a leap for his place at table. There it was, a private personal letter for him alone, propped against his milk glass.

"Hey, Pop! It's from brother!" Small Joe was pulling the envelope apart and diving into the contents. "Hey, look what he sent me." He passed over an oblong of thick, crinkly paper while he leaned over the sheet of writing-paper.

"A twenty-five dollar War Bond," Pop said slowly. Mom turned and looked at it over Pop's shoulder, with the frying-pan in her hand.

"Listen what he says. 'How are you doing, kid? Hurry and grow up so you can help me slap the Japs. Aren't you most big enough to get into the Army? Here's something for you in your name. Let's the whole family gang up and help to win this war.'"

Pop and Mom were silent. But small Joe didn't notice that. He was full of his letter and his War Bond.

"Gee, Pop, in six years I could get into the Army, couldn't I, Pop? Gee, Pop, I want to be a soldier like brother and fight in this war. Gee, isn't that bond nifty? Look, it was issued in Honolulu. It's mine."

But Pop was looking at Mom and Mom was looking at Pop. There were tears in Mom's eyes. She shook her head sharply. Pop reached out and patted her hand gently.

"Well, can't let our soldier boy beat us to buying War Bonds, can we, old lady?" was all he said.

She shook her head again. "I guess if he can give up his job and . . . and go off to war I can do some fighting back at home," she said in a queer voice. Small Joe looked up at her in surprise. She saw him looking at her and spoke sharply. "Well, Joe, we're about ready to eat. Say grace."

Small Joe folded his hands and bent his head as he had been taught. "Oh Lord, we thank thee for this food and all thy bountiful gifts . . ."

"Amen," Pop said.

"Amen," Mom said. "Now eat your good sausages."

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Suds In Your Eyes" by Mary Lasswell.

Here is a book chucked full of chuckles. Not one sentence from the front to the back is without its special brand of laughs. The author has gone all out for merriment in this time of war to give us something to make us realize that we must and will look for the comical to balance the days of strain.

This book is simply written and can be read easily in one evening if you can stop laughing long enough between chapters to continue.

Here is what Miss Lasswell has created for the funny side of us. She has discovered three characters, women in middle age. Mrs. Feeley is a widow and Mrs. Rasmussen is also a widow and into their particular 'junk yard' one day accidentally walked Miss Tinkham, an old maid retired music teacher. Now Miss Tinkham was a lady, at least that was the decision of the other members of the triangle. They came to their decision because of the clothes that she was wearing, although Miss Tinkham's sequin studded cap did appear a bit out of place for a street costume. But, my, how they envied her her glasses on a stick that she frequently resorted to when she wished to appear stately. Miss Tinkham lived by the stars but she could and would condescend to tell fortunes by reading palms if she were asked. Mrs. Feeley didn't put much stock in what she was told when her fortune was read but she was a willing victim just the same. Now what attracted Miss Tinkham to the widows was the fence that surrounded the junk yard that Mrs. Feeley was operating. The fence was made of old beer cans cemented together. "I guess there's not another like it in the whole world" the owner admitted modestly. They's ten thousand beer cans in that wall!" "Course the cans wasn't all mine."

Before a day had gone by Miss Tinkham was invited to room with the other two women and when the three of them lived under the same roof—well, it is a crime to tell more. They worked and played and laughed and cried and almost went hungry at times, but they stuck together and in so doing made it possible for such a hilarious book to be written.

The Blame Goes with the Name

By IRVIN S. COBB

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON, the author, walked into a Boston bookstore—Boston, the home of culture, mind you, and, idling about, found a copy of his own book Graustark. Slipping a fountain-pen from his pocket he surreptitiously scribbled his name on the fly-leaf. McCutcheon writes an almost illegible hand. He fiddled about a bit, then picked up the book and, carrying it in his hand, approached the proprietor. "What kind of a yarn is this?" he asked. "Pretty fair." "How much is it?" "Dollar and a half." McCutcheon opened the volume at the page bearing his scrawled signature. "How about this?" he asked. "What do you want for it with this in it?" "Oh," said the book-dealer, "that's a mutilated copy. Take it for seventy-five cents."

Orchard City Grange

Meeting of Orchard City Grange 333 held in I. O. O. F. hall in Campbell Tuesday, April 13, 1943.

It opened with a pot luck dinner at 6:30 p. m. and the rest of the evening was taken up with initiation for the third and fourth degrees. Music for the evening was provided by Mrs. Virginia Ruthford and Mervyn Keesling. Decorations were arranged by Miss Hazel Wilson and Mrs. Helen Hughes.

Among those taking the degrees were Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Del Mutolo, Mrs. B. R. Gilbert, and Bay Hays of Mt. View. Visitor present was Howard H. Ainsworth, master pro tem of the Mt. View Grange.

Marketing Report by Mervyn Keesling—Marketing at present at a standstill. Apricot and cherry crops both light. This year 3/4-length boots are very difficult to buy because of rubber shortage, and knee boots are abundant. However, it is possible to obtain the 3/4-length if one can prove extreme necessity.

The Grange passed a resolution to take sales tax off spray material. Classes in the Campbell High school will now be held in canning and dehydrating. Watch the papers for further information.

Next meeting of Santa Clara County Pomona Grange will be held at the Ravenswood school in Palo Alto Saturday, May 1 at 1:30 p. m. There will be a pot luck dinner at 6:30 and for the evening there will be initiation for the fifth degree.

To Hasten Victory

No American wants this war to go one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives—you lend your money.

Coach Hill's Boys Prepare for Fray With Feline Foe

by Roy Van Gorkom
Coach Walter L. Hill's boys are whipping themselves into shape for the fray Friday. For Friday's day! Yessir, on that day, the one after tomorrow, the Los Gatos Wild Cats are coming to Campbell.

Spirit is up among the team members, and they are waiting eagerly for the zero hour when they can swing into all-out action against the Cats. This diamond event will be no push-over, of course, but local fans have seen the splendid teamwork the pill-tossers used against Santa Clara, and since it was the Buccaneers' first game of the season, the team furnished a lot of excitement, but not as much as the meeting with Los Gatos will promote.

Hill of Los Gatos, who playd both football and basketball on the Cat team will probably pitch for the visitors, and Pete Messa will be on the mound for Campbell.
